

Advice for girl child parents

Mujhe bhi beti ke maa-baap se kuch kehna hai. Main ek OBGYN doctor hoon, matlab ladies ki doctor. Aur main roz aisi auraten dekhti hoon jo bahut der se aati hain. Bahut. Der. Se.

Isliye nahi ki unhe takleef nahi thi. Isliye ki unhe kabhi sikhaya hi nahi gaya ki apne sharir ke baare mein baat karna theek hai.

Toh agar aap sacchi apni beti ki bhalai chahte hain, toh use ye 3 cheezein de dijiye.

Pehli cheez: uske sharir ki jaankari.

Use batayein ki periods normal hain. Dard ho toh doctor ke paas jaana normal hai. Apne sharir ko samajhna sharm ki baat nahi, zaroori baat hai. Jo bachchi apne sharir ko jaanti hai, woh uski hifazat bhi kar sakti hai.

Doosri cheez: doctor tak pahunchne ki aazadi.

Use bachpan se ye feel hona chahiye ki agar kuch ajeeb lag raha hai, dard ho, kuch badal raha ho, koi sawaal ho toh woh aapse keh sake, aur aap use judge kiye bina doctor ke paas le jayein. Bahut si bimaariyaan isliye nahi pakdi jaatin kyunki ghar mein baat hi nahi hoti.

Teesri cheez: ye bharosa ki uska dard real hai.

"Sab ladkiyon ko hota hai" ye kehna band kijiye. Jab woh kahe ki dard bahut zyada hai, use suniye. Kyunki PCOS hai, endometriosis hai, fibroids hain aur ye sab tab pakad mein aate hain jab koi sunta hai.

Bas ye 3 cheezein- jaankari, aazadi, aur bharosa. Yahi aapki beti ki asli bhalai hai.
